Call for Applications: 2022 October Entrance

1. Objectives of Program and Admission Policy

Objectives of Education	The International Agricultural Sciences is a multidisciplinary doctoral program focusing on agricultural topics that deal with agricultural sciences, life and agricultural sciences, and bioindustrial sciences. The aim of the international agricultural research program is to develop linkage with international organizations and partner universities contributing to agricultural developments. This program will be organized with the international research institutes collaborating with the University of Tsukuba. Contemporary agricultural and environmental issues throughout the world will be given priority for conducting research in this doctoral program.
Admission Policy	(1) Qualifications The University of Tsukuba seeks students who are interested in topics related to food, life science, environment and bio-resources that aim to solve current problems with specialty and a broad knowledge. Applicants are requested to demonstrate academic interests in various issues involving the life phenomena of humans and other living organisms and the global environment. Special focus on the sustainable use of agro-biological resources and possession of applicable skills to analyze events from a variety of perspectives are sought for this program. (2) Policy of Selecting Students The University will make a comprehensive evaluation of applicants based on whether each applicant has the ability to conduct research in an advance field of agricultural sciences and proficiency in English. Additionally, academic ability to acquire advanced knowledge and understandings of contemporary problems existing in the world will be evaluated based on the submitted documents, research presentation, and individual interview.
